

Career Opportunities for Nursing Professionals

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania offers a variety of opportunities for those interested in nursing careers. Recent college graduates can find a number of entry-level positions, while seasoned professionals with nursing experience may pursue positions with higher levels of responsibility. Agencies that most frequently utilize these positions include the Departments of Corrections, Health, Human Services, and Military and Veterans Affairs. Our nurses work throughout all of Pennsylvania in a variety of settings, including correctional institutions, mental health hospitals, state health centers, veterans' homes, youth development centers, and agency central offices, as well as in many local government agencies.

Some of the many rewarding nursing careers available with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania include:

Registered Nurses provide nursing services at state mental health hospitals, youth development centers and youth forestry camps, veterans' homes and centers, and infirmaries of state correctional facilities. They may perform as head nurses, charge nurses, staff nurses, or assessment coordinators providing specialized nursing care and treatment services.

Registered Nurse Supervisors oversee professional and non-professional patient care personnel.

Licensed Practical Nurses perform practical nursing work in the direct care and treatment of individuals with physical injuries or illness, developmental disabilities, and/or mental illness in mental health hospitals, youth development centers, state correctional institutions, or veterans' homes.

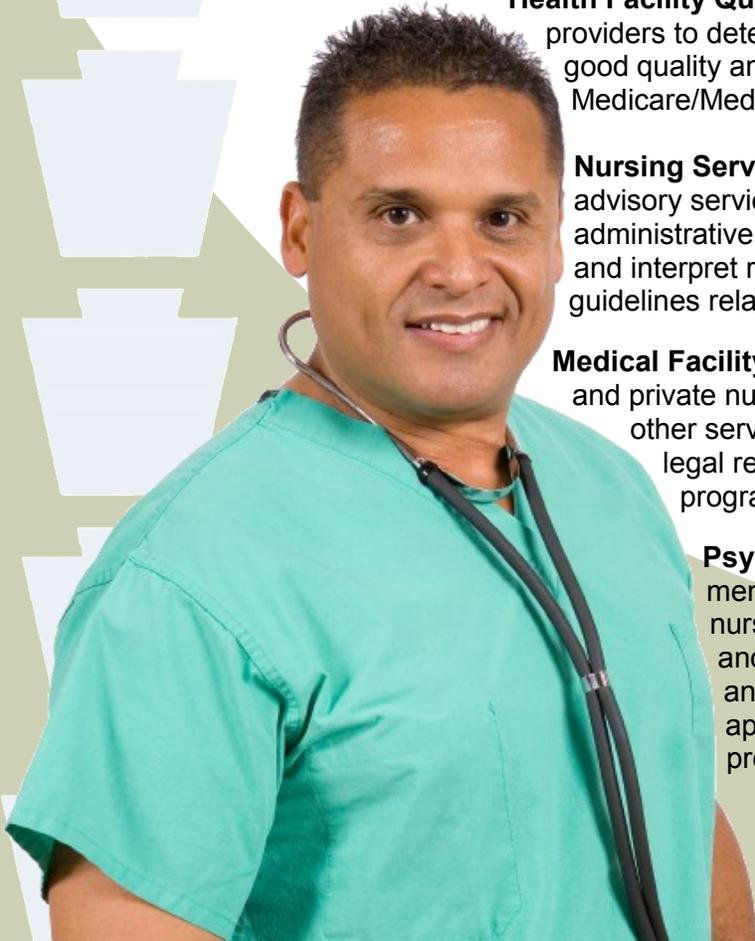

Community Health Nurses work in state and county health centers directing, coordinating, and providing various community health services.

Health Facility Quality Examiners conduct inspections of health care providers to determine that the patient care and services provided are of good quality and meet established state licensure and federal Medicare/Medicaid certification standards.

Nursing Services Consultants provide nursing consultative and advisory services to medical, nursing, behavioral health, or administrative personnel as well as the general public. They develop and interpret regulations, policies, procedures, standards, and guidelines related to health services.

Medical Facility Records Examiners examine facilities such as public and private nursing and convalescent homes, hospitals, clinics, and other service providers to assess their performance against the legal requirements and professional standards of the Medicaid program.

Psychiatric Clinical Nurse Specialists work within a state mental health hospital providing advanced-skill psychiatric nursing services and function in an advisory, consultative, and educational capacity. They identify and assess needs and problems within the hospital and develop individualized approaches to meeting these needs and solving nursing problems.

Certified Registered Nurse Practitioners provide health care services including medical assessment and prescription of therapeutic measures; promotion and maintenance of health; prevention of illness and disability; care during illness; and the implementation of appropriate reporting and/or referral, standardized procedure or changes in treatment regimen to address observed abnormal characteristics.
